*In the case of new construction, the All Energy Eligible amount is a percentage of total project costs based on the percentage by which the project exceeds baseline energy code and represents a maximum financing amount.

No matter the project type, the actual amount financed will be determined by the Rhode Island Infrastructure Bank and the borrower. The funds used to finance a loan may come from a variety of sources with their own rules and restrictions. Any party interested in further details on the evaluation of projects listed here should contact the Office of Energy Resources.
