

Rhode Island Residential Stretch Code Compliance Verification Form

2/16/2018

This completed form is required to verify compliance with the Rhode Island Residential Stretch Code when obtaining certification of the home through the DOE Zero Energy Ready Homes (ZERH) program. The form is to be completed by a certified HERS Rater, or other third-party verifier as described and authorized in the Rhode Island Residential Stretch Code, and submitted to the Office of Energy Resources following completion of construction. If the home is not ZERH certified, please submit the Alternate Path Verification Form. For questions regarding this form or the Stretch Code in general, please contact the Rhode Island Office of Energy Resources (OER) via email; Energy.Resources@energy.ri.gov
